

Iran Stands at a Historic Crossroads

We commend the courageous struggle of the Iranian people for freedom and democracy. As demonstrated in their nationwide uprisings, the people of Iran seek a future founded on a democratic republic. They reject both the current religious dictatorship and the authoritarian rule of the Shah. The people of Iran aspire to progress, not a return to the past.

The removal of Ali Khamenei, a dictator responsible for the blood of hundreds of thousands of innocent people in Iran and across the region, is a profoundly significant development. However, regime change in Iran, with its far-reaching implications for global peace and security, particularly in the Middle East, can only be achieved by the Iranian people and their organized resistance. Determining the country's political future remains exclusively the right and responsibility of the Iranian people.

In this context, we welcome the National Council of Resistance of Iran (NCRI)'s announcement of a provisional government to transfer sovereignty to the people and to establish a democratic republic based on Maryam Rajavi's Ten-Point Plan. This plan calls for freedom of expression and assembly, separation of religion and state, gender equality, abolition of the death penalty, recognition of autonomy for oppressed nationalities within a united Iran, and a non-nuclear Iran. It merits our full support and has already been endorsed by more than 4,000 legislators on both sides of the Atlantic.

The NCRI, as the oldest democratic and independent coalition in Iran, has consistently affirmed that it seeks neither financial assistance nor the presence of foreign forces on Iranian soil. Its program is committed to facilitating a peaceful transfer of power to the Iranian people through free and fair elections within six months of the regime's fall.

We also welcome the NCRI's call for the formation of a solidarity front that brings together all political forces committed to overthrowing the regime and establishing a republic based on the separation of religion and state.

Supporting the provisional government of the NCRI, Mrs. Maryam Rajavi, and the resistance movement under her leadership is a necessary step toward the establishment of democracy and stability in Iran, as well as peace and coexistence in the region and the world.
